LEGISLATORS OF THE NATION REASSEMBLE.

Great Crowds Throng the Capitol at the Opening of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Noon—The two houses of Congress have been called to order for the second session of the Fifty-sixth Congress.

The opening of Congress today drew great crowds at the capitol. On June 15th last the first session of the Fifty-sixth Congress adjourned and the second session began today with many momentous questions awaiting attention of the national law-makers.

Speaker Henderson arrived at his private office about 11:15 and was soon surrounded by members discussing the program of business. On the senate side there was less evidence of activity and the crowds were slow in invading the galleries. The President Pro Tem, Mr. Frye, was at his office early, conferring with Senators, and by 11:30 the floor of the Senate began to show signs of the activity preceding actual business.

SENATE OPENED.

The New Senator From Vermont Takes the Oath.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—At 12:15 p. m. the senate took a recess for half an hour and the President Pro Tem, Mr. Frye, appointed Messrs. Hoar and Cockrell a committee to wait on the President and inform him that the Senate was ready to receive any communication he desired to make. The committee will join a like committee from the House of Representatives.

At 12:55 the Senate took a further recess until 1:15. The credentials of William D. Dillingham as a Senator from Vermont were presented and the oath was administered to him. He fills the unexpired term of the late Senator Merrill. Senator Gear's successor, former Representative Jonathan P. Dolliver of Iowa, was present, but his credentials were withheld until the official announcement of Senator Gear's death.

The Senate reassembled at 1:15 p. m. and a few minutes later Major Pruden, one of the President's secretaries, appeared with the President's message. Secretary Bennett

SUDDEN DEATH OF THOS. L. MERRILL.

Passed Away in the Office of the Contra Costa Water Company.

Thomas L. Merrill, for twenty years a trusted employee in the office of the Contra Costa Water Company, died suddenly this afternoon either of heart disease or apoplexy, presumably the former. He had returned from lunch shortly after 1 o'clock and was busy at his accounting duties when he suddenly lurching and fell heavily on the office floor.

He was borne to the inner office of the President and laid upon a lounge. Dr. Chamberlain, who was driving down the street, was called in, but life had already fled when he arrived. Mr. Merrill never spoke after his fall and died within a very few minutes.

President Watkins was about, but W. J. Dineen, vice-president of the corporation, happened to be present and he speedily notified the family and the coroner and made arrangements to have the body removed to the family residence at 1215 Bush street.

Within half an hour Dr. Charles T. Rodolph, son-in-law of the deceased, arrived and supervised the removal of the remains.

Thomas L. Merrill was a native of Maine and about 45 years of age. He had resided in California since early manhood and was highly respected by a large circle of friends. He was greatly esteemed for his upright character. For twenty years he had been in charge of the cash taken in at the collection counter, and was regarded as one of the most capable and trusted employees of the water company.

Mr. Merrill leaves a widow and two daughters, one of whom is married to Dr. Charles T. Rodolph and the other to D. S. Matthews of the Sunset Grocery Company. The sudden death of the husband and father was a great shock to the family, and is especially distressing to the widow.

The cause of death cannot be definitely determined. All the inquest is held, although there is every indication that it resulted from heart disease. For several years Mr. Merrill has been troubled with his heart, but his condition was not such as to excite alarm as he was very punctual and methodical in the discharge of his du-

OUR COUNTRY STANDS WELL WITH ALL THE NATIONS OF EARTH.

President M'Kinley Declares for Peace and Open Door in China---Italy Must Be Treated Fairly---We Will Give the Filipinos Justice---Pushing Our Trade All Over the World---United States is in a Most Prosperous Condition---President's Message.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The President's message is as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: With the outgoing of the old and the incoming of the new century you begin the last session of the Fifty-sixth Congress with evidences on every hand of individual and national prosperity and with proof of growing strength and increasing power for good of Republican institutions. Your countrymen will join with you in felicitations on the many successes of the administration which have been firmly established that ever before and that have for it and the determination to preserve it are more universal than at any former period of our history.

The republic was never so strong, because never so strongly entrenched in the hearts of the people as now. The Constitution, with few amendments, exists as it left the hands of its authors. The additions which have been made to it proclaim larger freedom and more extended citizenship. Popular government has demonstrated in its one hundred and twenty-four years of trial here its stability and security and its efficiency as the best instrument of national development and the best safeguard to human rights.

OUR POPULATION. When the sixth Congress assembled in November, 1800, the population of the United States was 3,385,183. It is now 56,304,729. Then we had sixteen States, now we have forty-five. Then our territory consisted of 590,000 square miles. It is now 3,530,000 square miles.

Education, religion and morality have kept pace with our advancement in other directions, and while extending its power the Government has adhered to its foundation principles and abated none of them in dealing with our new peoples and possessions. A nation so preserved and blessed gives reason to thank to God and invokes his guidance and the continuance of his care and favor.

In our foreign intercourse the dominant question has been the treatment of the Chinese problem. Apart from this our relations with the powers have been happy.

The recent troubles in China spring from the anti-foreign agitation which for the past three years has gained strength in the northern provinces. Their origin lies deep in the character of the Chinese race and in the traditions of their government. The Tai Ping rebellion and the opening of Chinese ports to foreign trade and settlement disturbed alike the homogeneity and the seclusion of China.

Meanwhile foreign activity made itself felt in all quarters, not alone on the coast, but along the great rivers, arteries, and in the remote districts, carrying new ideas and introducing new associations among the primitive people which had pursued for centuries a national policy of isolation.

The telegraph and the railway are spreading over their land, the steamships plying on their waterways, the merchant and the missionary penetrating year by year farther to the interior, became to the Chinese mind types of alien invasion, changing the course of their national life and fraught with vague forebodings of disaster to their beliefs and their self-control.

For several years before the present troubles all the resources of foreign diplomacy, backed by moral demonstrations of the physical force of fleets and arms have been needed to secure due respect for the treaty rights of foreigners and to obtain satisfaction from the responsible authorities for the sporadic outbreaks upon the person and property of unoffending sojourners, which from time to time occurred in widely separated points in the northern provinces, as in the case of the outbreaks in Sze Chuen and Shan Tung.

CHINESE TROUBLE. Posting of anti-foreign placards became a daily occurrence, which the repeated prohibition of the Imperial power failed to check or punish. These inflammatory appeals to the ignorance and superstition of the masses, menacing and absurd in their accusations, and deeply hostile in their spirit, could not but work cumulative harm. They aimed at no particular class of foreigners; they were impartial in attacking everything foreign. An outbreak in Shan Tung, in which German missionaries were slain, was the too natural result of these malevolent proceedings. The posting of seditious placards, exhorting to the utter destruction of foreigners and of foreign things, continued unabated. Hostile demonstrations toward the stranger gained strength by organization.

THE BOXERS. The sect commonly styled the Boxers developed greatly in the provinces north of the Yang Tze, and with the collusion of many notable officials, including some in the Imperial Council of the throne itself, became alarmingly aggressive. No foreigner's life outside of the protected treaty ports, was safe. No foreign interest was secure from spoliation. The diplomatic representatives of the powers in Peking strove in vain to check this movement. Protest was followed by demand and demand by renewed protest, to be met promptly sent from the Philippines and the United States.

FOR PROTECTION. The increasing gravity of the conditions in China and the imminence of peril to our own diversified interests in the Empire, as well as those of all the other treaty powers, were soon appreciated by this Government, causing prompt action. The United States, from the earliest days of foreign intercourse with China, had followed a policy of peace, making no occasion to testify power will, to further the extension of lawful trade, to respect the sovereignty of its government, and to insure by all legitimate and lawful means, the fullest measure of protection for the lives and property of our law-abiding citizens and for the exercise of their beneficent callings among the Chinese people.

Mindful of this, it was felt to be appropriate that our purposes should be pronounced in favor of such course as would hasten action of the powers at Peking to promote the administrative reforms so greatly needed for strengthening the Imperial government as maintaining the integrity of China, in which we believed the whole Western world to be alike concerned. To these ends I cannot be addressed to the several powers occupying territory and maintaining spheres of influence in China the circular proposals of 1899, insisting from their declarations of their intentions and views as to the desirability of the adoption of measures insuring the benefits of equality of treatment of all foreign trade throughout China.

With gratifying unanimity the responses coincided in this common policy, enabling me to see in the successful termination of these negotiations proof of the friendly spirit which animates the various powers interested in the untampered development of commerce and industry in the Chinese Empire as a source of vast benefit to the whole commercial world.

JEALOUSY OF JESSIE MORRISON

Olin Castle Tells of Events That Led Up to the Murder of His Wife.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 3.—A special to the Star from Eldorado, Kan., says: Olin Castle resumed the stand in the Jessie Morrison trial this morning, continuing his testimony for the State. Mrs. Morrison faced the witness and watched him closely and calmly as he made answer to the questions put by County Attorney Drumback. Asked if he had ever promised to marry Jessie Morrison or had ever told her that he loved her he answered no.

The spectators, who filled the room almost to suffocation, had leaned forward eagerly to catch every word. When the answers came they settled back in their seats in the satisfaction of a curiosity gratified.

Later testimony given by Castle disclosed that the witness had kept alive the jealousy of both Mrs. Morrison and of his wife, for whose murder Mrs. Morrison is being tried. He admitted that his wife uttered a necktie given him by Mrs. Morrison and had replaced it by one made by herself.

"When did you and Clara Wiley become engaged?" continued Attorney Drumback.

"In July of August, 1898." "Did you tell Jessie Morrison of your engagement?" "I did."

"When?" "In the fall of 1899." They were employed as clerks in a racket store and he had told Mrs. Morrison of the engagement only after she had pressed him for the information. Mrs. Morrison had left the store in December, 1899, but she visited it several times after that as a customer. The last time, witness said, was on June 20th last, two days before the tragedy, when she asked Castle to meet her.

Castle, pointing his finger and shaking it, said: "She pointed her finger at me and said: 'Meet me at 11 o'clock tonight or you will wish you had.'"

"Did she say where she wanted to meet you?" "Yes, at Mr. Ehler's house. Mr. Ehler is her brother-in-law."

"Did you go to Mr. Ehler's house?" "No, sir."

Castle told that after that Mrs. Morrison had stepped in front of him on the street but that he avoided her, and that about 11 o'clock on the night of June 20th, while returning home after visiting Mrs. Wiley, she had accosted him.

"She caught me first by the coat," said witness, "and told me, 'Wait a minute. I want to see you. I have some letters to show you.' I jerked loose and walked toward home. She at once overtook me. She took hold of my left sleeve and then rushed around to my other arm and caught hold of that. I took hold of her wrists and pulled her loose and went away. I went into the house and Jessie did 'heaven'."

At another time she had met him on the street and handed him a note, which he had torn up without reading.

"Did you ever wait on Mrs. Morrison—that is, keep company with her?" "The question was objected to and the objection sustained. Castle told of receiving several letters from Mrs. Morrison last winter while she was visiting at Excelsior Springs. In one she asked him to come and see her immediately and in another, in which she asked him to write, she said that she took the mail from the post-office herself. The letters had been destroyed. He had taken defendant riding before she went to

HAYNE'S TRICKS ARE BAFFLED.

He Utterly Fails to Trap Engineer Schuyler With Catch Questions.

My wonder is really astounding. In the number of cases we try, that a fact suit should often prove groundless. And a water suit always prove dry.

This rhyming old quip of an English barrister applies very well to the suit of the Water Company against the engineer. Even the verbal fencing of the opposing lawyers does not relieve the dryness. Only the vast importance of the case keeps public attention on the trial.

Of course the opinions of famous engineering experts arouse attention, but this time in the end because at least three times as much time is taken in cross-examination as in the direct examination, and there is generally very little of interest developed in the cross-examination.

After they have related all that is in dispute they are subjected to a lengthy round of dry questioning mostly about unimportant details. Attorney Hayne spends a vast deal of time and ingenuity in the effort to trap witnesses into making statements that are apparently contradictory or may be twisted into an appearance of inconsistency. His attempts in this direction have been generally fruitless, for no witness for the Water Company has thus far involved himself in contradictions. Hayne made desperate efforts to break the force of the testimony of Expert Adams, but without avail. He is making still greater efforts to weaken the testimony of Engineer Schuyler, but so far his time and labor have been wasted.

ENGINEER SCHUYLER AGAIN.

Mr. Schuyler resumed the stand this morning and testified that the minimum supply of water from San Leandro lake exclusive of evaporation was 5,000,000 gallons per day. The capacity of Tennessean reservoir placed at 20,000,000 gallons per day and the average flow of Sausal reservoir at 7,000,000 gallons per day.

CAPACITY OF THE SYSTEM.

According to the opinions of Engineers Adams and Schuyler the present minimum water supply of the Contra Costa system, exclusive of the Alameda, Berkeley and Mount Diablo plants, is 12,500,000 gallons per day, divided as follows:

San Leandro Lake	5,000,000
Alameda artificial wells	5,000,000
Tennessean reservoir	20,000,000
Bedford reservoir	20,000,000
Sausal reservoir	7,000,000
Total	12,500,000

Mr. Schuyler said that so long as pipe continued in use it should be valued at what it cost to lay it, because when it was worn out it had to be replaced by new pipe. If pipe were worn out and not replaced at all no valuation should be placed on it.

AN ARTFUL DODGE.

Hayne provoked a wrangle by testifying that he had cross-examined the engineer in regard to the report he made in 1896 while objecting to the admission of that report in evidence. McCutcheon said if the witness was to be examined in regard to any report he had made he should be confronted with it.

"If you continue to interrupt with your objections I will get through today," said Hayne, snappishly.

"While we are anxious to get through, we cannot stop after our rights as the jury," replied McCutcheon. Hayne had entered into an agreement with Mr. Schuyler today, but he repeatedly defied his intention of breaking the agreement if the water company's case did not let him have his way in all things. Every time an objection would be made he would threaten to break the agreement at it was of no value.

The Court allowed Hayne a great deal of latitude and overruled McCutcheon's objection. Hayne stated that he was examining the witness about an examination he made in 1896.

Nevertheless he continued to question the witness from a typewritten copy of the report of 1896. Mr. Schuyler said he had made his own estimates as to both quantities and prices in 1896. At that time he had estimated the cost of concrete at $1.50 a yard and brick work at $1.00 a yard. Last report he had estimated the cost of concrete at $1.25 a yard and brick work at $1.00 a yard. In the light of subsequent knowledge and developments he thought his estimates for 1896 were too low.

HAYNE CALLED DOWN.

As Hayne continued to question the witness directly from the 1896 report, McCutcheon springing to his feet, exclaiming, "It is perfectly clear that counsel is examining the witness from the report of 1896, and I give notice that I propose to examine the witness in evidence on the ground that the report is inadmissible on the showing made here." Counsel is trying to examine Mr. Schuyler on the report while excluding the report itself from going into the evidence. We have nothing to conceal. The report was made and it was not used the word "report" but had only spoken of "estimates" made in 1896. "The estimates were made in the report and you are asking the witness about them," retorted McCutcheon.

Mr. Schuyler said there were several quantities of pipe. Properly speaking, pipe was laid worked into the condition of mortar, was very expensive in preparation. He had used pipe that cost $2.50 and $1.50 per yard. The object of Hayne's questions in this direction was to show that no real pipe was put in the San Leandro dam, but in this he was disappointed. Schuyler said the body of the dam was really pipe. Hayne announced after recess that some issue in regard to the pipe suit had been forced in the Federal Court at San Francisco, which imperatively required his presence. He therefore asked that the court adjourn for the day to enable him to appear this afternoon in the pipe matter. No objection being made, the case went over till 10 o'clock tomorrow.

SLAUGHTERED BY GOVERNOR.

Chinese Official Stabs Scores of Priests, Sisters and Orphans.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—A special from China to the Volks Zeitung reports a fearful mission slaughter in the province of Shan Si. The first victims, the dispatch says, were 2 Catholic Bishop and his confidants and four European priests, Franciscans, Italian and French.

The Governor invited them to his home, pretending to give them better protection, but when they arrived their hands were tied. Then the Governor himself pointed them all. Next the Governor went to the Bishop's residence with a number of soldiers and seized six Marcelline Sisters.

He promised them money and distinguished husbands if they would renounce Christianity, which offer they unambiguously rejected. Thereupon the Governor poisoned them and also a number of Chinese priests, thirty Chinese Sisters, and 20 orphans from 5 to 15 years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Atwater and their two little children, Mrs. C. W. Price and their son, all of the American Board; Mr. and Mrs. Lagren of the Swedish, and Miss Eldred, an English woman, were butchered. The story of these murders directly implicated Yu Hsien, the Governor of Shan Si. As announced in the Peking dispatch of the Associated Press of Saturday last, members of Li Hung Chang's staff say the Chinese Emperor will probably send Yu Hsien a silk cord, which is an intimation that he must hang himself.

A number of the reports have been published of the June massacre in Shan Si, some of the details being too horrible for publication. Men, women and children were butchered. Fifteen seminary students had hidden themselves in a cavern, were forced to drink the blood of the first victims. They were then killed. A Chinese priest and two Christians who attempted to escape, were caught and put in a small hut, where they were burned.

At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors this morning the petition to revoke the liquor license of H. Fortune at Decoto was denied. Mr. Church moved to deny the petition and the motion prevailed. Strength and Vigor

Mr. C. M. Scott, 1849 Dorchester Avenue, Boston, Mass., tells how he became a strong, hearty man:

"About two years ago I suffered from general debility and I doubt if there was any body more utterly miserable than I was. I had no life or energy, and was as depressed mentally as I was worn out physically. It was not at all unusual for me to go to sleep over my work. My blood was thin and watery, but the worst of it all was the dreadful, wearying nervousness at night. When I retired at ten o'clock, instead of going to sleep I would toss and turn till well on into the morning, and when I awoke it was without any feeling of being refreshed or rested. I lost so much flesh that I got down to 125 pounds in weight, and I had no desire for food.

"Last January a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had previously tried many different kinds of remedies and had consulted three physicians, but the little relief they gave was very brief, so I was completely discouraged. My friends, however, insisted and I tried the medicine.

"By the time the second box was begun there was such evident improvement that I continued taking them till the ninth box, when I felt that I was entirely cured. I now weigh 165 pounds. There is no sign of nervousness, I rest well and feel strong, and am able to enjoy life once more. Mrs. Scott was feeling a little run down a few weeks ago, but she immediately began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and she is experiencing the same beneficial results that I am."

(Signed) C. M. Scott.

MONDAY DECEMBER 3, 1900

The United States counts have just unveiled a fact and who has been living in a drowsy state for years and dying a person on a dead man's name. He occurred during the trial that he had never been in the army and at the time when he was given a pension for his services in the penitentiary. A few, however, examples of this sort would do lots of good to one who believes the old soldier all the comforts that he has been given upon his back. It is not pleasant to support of the nation's expense a lot of impostors and a great deal of money which is an opportunity for fraud out of our good-hearted citizens.

NEVADA'S FUTURE

With the exception of a slight falling off in Nebraska the only State failing to show a greatly increased population as a result of the past ten years is Nevada which now numbers 23,450 less people than it did ten years ago. This marked decrease is due to the fact that the mining development of the State but despite the mining boom Nevada has a promising future and from now on will begin to gain in both population and wealth.

Since dependence on mining has proven to be a broken reed more attention will be paid to the development of agriculture, horticulture and stock raising interests. Our neighbor State is far from being a land of barrenness and even those lands are capable of yielding prolific harvests if the same efforts are put forth to develop them as have been exercised in the once rich and now bankrupt districts of California. Then again it must be remembered that besides its gold and silver Nevada has other metal that promises a favorable return if properly developed.

California has in a measure overshadowed Nevada. The Caucasians are instinctively drawn to the ocean and for that reason this State has received most attention from home seekers. For this reason it is becoming more and more a land of immigrants and that will of itself force many to take up the cross of pioneer life in our neighbor State. The completion of the new Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad will open up a large section of Nevada that is now almost a wilderness and by the next census is taken the State will have a different story to tell. It has the land and water is available and all that is needed is intelligent direction that will link both elements and bring property and population to the present diminished state in our commonwealth.

THE DECLINE OF CRIME.

The statistics for the past year by law authorities in Nevada are compared to the statistics of the past year and indicate a decline in crime of only one hundred percent. The decline is due to the fact that the statistics are based on the number of arrests and not on the number of convictions. The decline is also due to the fact that the statistics are based on the number of arrests and not on the number of convictions. The decline is also due to the fact that the statistics are based on the number of arrests and not on the number of convictions.

It was the days when the law was in the hands of the few and not the many. In those times the law was regarded with very little reverence and the law was in the hands of the few and not the many. In those times the law was regarded with very little reverence and the law was in the hands of the few and not the many.

What has become of Aguirre? Not a word has been heard from him since his friend Bryan was defeated. It is a sure thing that he has at last thrown up the sponge. It is a sure thing that he has at last thrown up the sponge. It is a sure thing that he has at last thrown up the sponge.

McKinley's victory becomes the more pronounced as the complete official returns come in. It shows what a giant the nerve Bryan possesses when he wants to run again. He does not seem to realize that he is not only a dead one but that he has been buried beyond all hope of future resurrection.

RUNNING A NEWSPAPER.

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst is advertising himself again this time through the medium of an attempted reformation of the press. He announces that he has secured the necessary backing to establish what he declares will be a model newspaper, the distinguishing features of the enterprise to be as follows:

A newspaper which will tell the truth.
A newspaper that will print all the news.
A newspaper that cannot be swayed by advertisers or business.

A newspaper of limitless enterprise and without fear.
A newspaper that will lead public opinion.
A newspaper that the public will believe.
A newspaper beyond the reach of patronage.

Dr. Parkhurst is one of those individuals who fancy that they can run another man's business better than he can do it himself. Like his revered confederate who a few months ago conducted a newspaper for a week on the lines that he imagined Christ would follow if he were on earth, he is only working to create a fact that will bring him in some ready money and it is more than likely that it will do so in his heart the doctor is satisfied that the newspaper he suggests, while good enough in theory, could not live permanently and prosperously if put to the test.

There is probably no business about which such wild ideas are entertained by some people as that of running a newspaper, and if the suggestions received at an office during the course of a year from cranks and theorists were made that public there would be plenty of evidence in sight that Shakespeare was not far wrong when he declared "What fools we mortals be." Some want all reports of crimes eliminated others ask that the stock quotations be not published. It is the craze of a gambling spirit, another, while some people are foolish enough to ask that no advertisements be accepted, but that the newspaper be devoted solely to chronicling current events and that all outside matters be diverted into other channels.

The trouble is that no one is to be allowed that a newspaper is a business proposition of dollars and cents for its proprietor. His object is to build up circulation by publishing such a variety of topics that his paper will be in general demand and to do this, church happenings, real estate transactions, sporting gossip, criminal events and all the other news of the day must be so mixed as to hold all classes of readers. Because one man is mainly interested in church matters and not at all in athletic events he should not figure that all the latter class of news should be suppressed and vice versa from every other standpoint of local happenings. The modern journalism is built to suit the times and it is because the demand has made it so. Taken as a whole the newspaper of today is far cleaner and purer than it was fifty years ago when coarse, ribald and often sordid news and anecdotes found their way into print and especially is this true of the American journal which in the absolute sense of a newspaper ranks far higher than any other similar production of the world.

HANKIND LOVES THE SEA.

For the first time since the organization of the Federal Government the center of population has moved eastward and is now thirty miles east of where the census of 1890 placed it and almost on the same line of latitude. Empire, as represented by population has not taken its course westward during the last decade.

It is somewhat curious to observe now the increase in population has during the second. The ratio of increase of population in both the Atlantic and Pacific States has been far above the increase in the great Mississippi Valley. States on the Atlantic side and the two States which have fallen below the normal average of increase are Maine and Virginia. The rigorous climate and inhospitable soil of the former State explain the disposition of its people to migrate to regions where the climate is more kindly and nature more bountiful.

As for Virginia the falling off is due to the constant drift of its negroes to the North. The increase in the white population is above the normal with the increase in the colored population is far below. The same thing was noticeable in a lesser degree in North Carolina. In fact there is a steady drift of colored people from all over the South to the North and West. Notwithstanding this fact, the increase in the population of every Southern State except Virginia is above the normal which is about 125 percent of the whole country.

Collectively the increases in the Mississippi Valley States comprising Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin is 16.5 percent. Even South Carolina beats that. Against it California can show an increase of nearly 24 percent. Oregon 23 and Washington 19.

The ratio of increase in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and Tennessee is almost exactly the same, a little below 15 percent. Illinois shows an increase of more than 10 percent but more than half of it is in the city of Chicago alone. Outside the city it is about 10 percent.

Against this come Massachusetts with 27 percent, New York and Pennsylvania with over 20 percent each. New Jersey with over 18 percent, Alabama and Mississippi with 16 percent, Texas with 15 percent, Florida with 14 percent, Louisiana with 13 percent, and Texas with 12 percent. The highest percentage of any of the United States, though it is exceeded in gross total by the increase in New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

The percentages of increase in the sparsely settled interior States and Oklahoma merely represent the occupation of vacant territory and not to appreciable figure in summing up population totals. Consequently they do not detract from the evident fact that the population of the United States has become more settled in habit, shows the same disposition to cluster about the seaboard than the mountains steep down to the sea as in California those conditions are nearest perfection.

What has become of Aguirre? Not a word has been heard from him since his friend Bryan was defeated. It is a sure thing that he has at last thrown up the sponge. It is a sure thing that he has at last thrown up the sponge. It is a sure thing that he has at last thrown up the sponge.

McKinley's victory becomes the more pronounced as the complete official returns come in. It shows what a giant the nerve Bryan possesses when he wants to run again. He does not seem to realize that he is not only a dead one but that he has been buried beyond all hope of future resurrection.

Tackle figures on the gridiron very prominently throughout the country just now. The supply should never run short for there is many a man willing to tackle the gridiron whenever he gets a chance; that is provided there is the right kind of thing on it.

MISS CRAFT ON
EQUAL SUFFRAGE.Makes a Defense on Behalf of the Women.

Mabel Clara Craft, Sunday editor of the Chronicle is in advocate of woman's suffrage. Miss Craft is so different from what is always been my conception of the feminine advocate of equal suffrage that I was greatly surprised to receive a letter from her the other day, criticising an editorial in last week's Town Talk which drew attention to the fact that the State in which a negro was recently elected to death is a hot-bed of woman's suffrage. She declares it to be her belief that the political emancipation of women is not far distant, and that it is beyond criticism in those States where it already obtains. After quoting from the Woman's Journal to disprove some of my assertions regarding the failure of woman's suffrage in Colorado she takes me to task in this fashion:

It seems to me scarcely fair to imply as you did in your editorial, that the women voters of Colorado had anything to do with last week's horrible murder of a negro. When one considers that such things have always been done in the South where women have no political influence. The advocates of woman's suffrage do not claim that the voting of women will purify politics but they do claim that it is the best woman who votes who is the best woman who votes. There are few women law-breakers. The votes of women are probably cast more often on the side of law and order and decency than are those of men. It is not absurd to declare that the immoral women of Denver do the voting when 99 out of 100 are not the women of the State to say nothing of the fact that the fashionable and middle class residence districts of Denver furnished hundreds of early women voters. Surely no one would claim that the depraved class in Colorado includes nearly a hundred thousand women.

To my mind there is one argument that alone settles the woman's suffrage question in favor of the women. I believe it to be sound democratic doctrine that taxation without representation is unjust, and so long as one-third of the taxes of San Francisco are paid by women, much of it on property that they have accumulated themselves by their business ability it seems to me that these taxpayers have a right not only to a voice in saying how these taxes shall be paid but in saying also what individuals shall administer the money thus collected. The overwhelming defeat of the Democratic ticket this time seems to forebode a long term of legislative rule. How strange it would be if the Democrats could find it necessary in time to enfranchise American women in order to win back what they have lost. The Democratic party has in times past stood for equality and I cannot see that equality is limited to a contest between men and men. Don't allow any one to tell you that a paid suffrage is a thing to be shied at in the four States of the Union. In the last twenty years it has done nothing of New Zealand and the United States. It has done nothing of New Zealand and the United States. It has done nothing of New Zealand and the United States.

Is an adjective which seems to have become monopolized by the young lady at the typewriter. It is astonishing what an array of beautiful women are found in stores and offices.

LABOR UNIONS MAKING PROGRESS

Important Meetings Were Held During the Past Week.

The teamsters of this city and county, at a meeting held recently, effected a temporary organization.

Fifty names were signed to the roll. It is the purpose of the new union to take out a charter from the Team Drivers' International Union and from the start work upon international rules.

There are in this city and county something like 1,500 men who earn their living in this calling, and the necessity of organizing is apparent.

The temporary officers of the new union are: C. Sheehan, president; Robert M. Smith, secretary; and M. McKinney, treasurer.

No definite work has yet been received from National Organizer Pierce, who is still in the southern part of the State, to whom he will reach this city. When his intention has been ascertained, the local committee to make arrangements for his reception will set out to work.

Employer and Employee.

The only controversy now in progress between union men and employers in this city, at this time, is that between the Clerks' Union and the Millmen's Union and a number of the planning mill owners of this city.

Much enthusiasm prevailed, and, judging from the interest manifested, the team drivers will be the first of the strong labor organizations in the city.

Committees were appointed to visit the San Francisco Team Drivers' Union to obtain what information they can regarding the union and report back at the next meeting.

All teamsters are earnestly requested to attend the next meeting.

Federated Trades.

The last meeting of the Federated Trades brought out a large attendance of delegates.

The chair was occupied by J. Rothschild of the Retail Clerks' Union.

Reports from the several unions in the Federation were received and each of them reported progress.

The Federation received a committee from the Millmen's Union and listened to an interesting account of the move which is now being made by the Millmen's Union to get up a two-week strike.

The visitors asked for the assistance and encouragement of the Federated Trades in the undertaking, and both were promised in a very hearty manner.

The two-week strike will be given in the Exposition Building. It will open on the 15th of December and continue until the 22d. A number of teams have already expressed a desire to take part.

State Labor Federation.

Circulars are being sent among all labor unions and federated labor organizations of the State asking them to send delegates to a meeting which is to be held in San Francisco for the purpose of forming a State Federation of Labor.

The convention will be held on the 15th of January of next year. The call for the meeting comes from the San Francisco Labor Council.
